ONE PORT. ALL OF SPAIN

Cartagena Cruise Port

Cartagena looks out to the sea. The Mediterranean has forged the strong identity of this hospitable and cosy town. This destination combines the best tourist services and infrastructures with the facilities and conveniences of a port that has the capacity to cater for the most modern cruise ships in the world. In fact, Cartagena is an ideal destination that offers an excellent climate and high-quality range of leisure options; a destination where everything is just a step away and where passengers can disembark in the very heart of the town, thanks to the proximity and accessibility of the Cruise Terminal.

PORT FACILITIES

Located on the Mediterranean Coast in the South-East of the Iberian Peninsula, close to the leading Spanish, French and Italian ports, Cartagena is an ideal port of call on all Mediterranean routes.

This much is confirmed by the numerous cruise companies that have included this sunny Mediterranean destination on their itineraries for many years.

WATERFRONT

An aerial photograph of the Port of Cartagena, Colombia. A large white cruise ship with multiple decks is docked at the quay. The city of Cartagena is visible in the background, built on a hillside overlooking the sea. The sky is blue with some clouds.

A City That Looks to the Sea

The waterfront revitalization of the Port of Cartagena has been essential for becoming an attractive port of call for cruise passengers. This redevelopment includes various projects within the port area, such as the construction of a new boulevard along Alfonso XII Quay and the restoration of Charles III Wall, monument of the 18th century classified as being Heritage of Cultural Interest.

Stroll along Alfonso XII Quay and enjoy the garden areas, palm trees and seabreeze, in an area where cultural, recreational and commercial activities take place.

Port infrastructures included in the port-city integration plan: two marinas and a Yacht Club, as well as the Cruise Terminal which offers a 709 meter long berth. In this area is located the Passenger Terminal Building, a space with the necessary services for cruise passengers: check-in desk, security scanner for passengers and baggage, passport control, offices for the Police, Civil Guard, Customs and Port Police as well as toilets.

The new waterfront is also endowed with the Auditorium and Congress Centre, as well as the National Museum of Underwater Archaeology, a building of avant-garde architecture, which holds shipwrecks and a collection of artefacts recovered from sites in the region. The restaurants in the area offer the best local gastronomy led by two-starred-Michelin chef and the unique Licor 43 produced solely in Cartagena.

HISTORY

Cartagena The Way to Memory

The close relationship that exists between Cartagena and its port has been a very special feature of its history. In this respect, the different settlers that have inhabited the area over the centuries have left an indelible mark on the town. Their influence is recorded in numerous archaeological sites and historical buildings dotted throughout the centre of Cartagena. All of these attractions can be found just five minutes' walk away from the harbour, whose promenade has been incorporated in the town as an additional tourist facility, replete with bars, restaurants and terrace cafés. In Cartagena, visitors are also able to enjoy some excellent shopping opportunities, which are characterised by their quality, variety and exquisite customer service: the latest trends in fashion, antiques, decorative items, souvenirs, etc.

Roman Baths

In the basement of a building on Rey Carlos III Street lie the remains of Roman baths dating from the 1st century A.D., specifically part of a caldarium (room for hot baths).

Archaeological Museum

Many civilizations have settled in Águilas, and proof of this is the wealth of roman remains found in this Museum.

Mazarrón

Port of Mazarrón

Offers visitors a rich heritage thanks to the settlement of many civilisations. Known for its mining wealth during the 19th and 20th centuries, Mazarrón developed tourist and agriculture industries as well as promoted the fishing tradition.

Roman Fish Salting Factory and Archaeological Museum

As fish was an important product in Mazarrón, particularly fish sauces, an essential ingredient of the roman gastronomy, this centre explains the complete process for producing foods preserved in salt.

C Bolnuevo Erosions

Mazarrón offers a beautiful coastline. Opposite of the Mediterranean Beach of Bolnuevo there is a sandstone monument sculpted by the erosion of the water and wind.

CLIMATE

COASTS, the way to sun

Visitors will enjoy almost 300 days of sunshine a year, warm temperatures even in the winter and little rain, not to mention a coast that is entirely untouched in many areas and a considerable variety of beaches and coves. Another of the great attractions of the “Costa Cálida” is the Mar Menor, Europe’s biggest salt-water lagoon that offers us warm and tranquil waters that are ideal for pursuing water-sports and whose waters and mud deposits present some highly-valued therapeutic qualities. A sand-bank formation that runs parallel to the coast over a distance of 22 kilometres, separates the Mar Menor from the Mediterranean Sea, creating an extensive line of coast with two shores, La Manga del Mar Menor.

Points of Interest

5 minutes away

A Cala Cortina

A cove located just a few kilometres away from the Cruise Terminal, nestled among the mountains, accessible via a “sendero azul” or blue trail, a coastal path that contributes to the sustainability of the environment and heritage.

30 minutes away

Mar Menor

This salt-water lagoon boasts a series of quiet beaches and warm waters. The small towns that dot the coast offer an additional attraction.

B La Manga del Mar Menor

Cabo de Palos.

Mediterranean coastal beaches and coves are found in this picturesque fishing village.

C Calblanque Regional Park

A protected natural area of considerable beauty that presents several miles of untouched beaches, some of them boasting nudist colonies.

Western Region

Untouched pebble beaches, deserted coves and beautiful cliffs. El Portús, La Azohía and Isla Plana are just some of the favourite destinations.

1 hour away

D Mazarrón

An unspoilt area along the Costa Cálida. The local beaches are equipped with all the facilities required for the whole family to have a good time.

E Águilas

An essential visit in order to see the impressive coastal landscapes of Cabo Cope and Puntas de Calnegre, which are of considerable environmental value and appeal.

SPORTS

The way to action

The virtues of its Mediterranean climate, its warm, crystal-clear waters and the environmental value of its underwater life all make Cartagena and its surrounding areas an ideal place in which to pursue sports within a natural setting; scuba-diving, underwater potholing, windsurfing, kite-surfing, water-biking, water-skiing, etc. The existence of various tourism consortiums and companies specialising in these activities means that visitors can easily enjoy any of these sports. Special mention should also be made of golf, a sport that can be played on any of the twenty courses dotted throughout the Region of Murcia.

Life

30 minutes away

Mar Menor and La Manga

One of the most highly recommended areas for the pursuit of water-sport activities. The Estación Náutica Mar Menor manages all the tourist services and infrastructures throughout the area, offering considerable support for visitors.

Marine Reserve of Islas Hormigas

A unique setting in which to practise scuba-diving and snorkelling.

- 1 Estación Náutica Mar Menor
- 2 Marine Reserve of Islas Hormigas
- 3 Águilas
- 4 Mazarrón

San Pedro del Pinatar, Santiago de la Ribera and Los Alcázares.

Small fishing villages in the Mar Menor, that given the good weather and the calm and shallow conditions of the waters, allow visitors to practice all kinds of water sports all year round: sailing, kayaking, windsurfing, kite surfing, speed boating, surfing, and stand-up paddle boarding.

The warm waters and high salinity make the Mar Menor a popular area for therapeutic mud baths, known since antiquity and used for medical and beauty treatments.

Cycling routes are also available in the salt marshes of San Pedro or along the coastal cycling paths of these towns.

1 hour away

Águilas and Mazarrón

In the southeastern part of the region the beaches and Mediterranean charm will captivate visitors. The underwater attractions and caves are also highly rated by scuba-diving enthusiasts, as well as being considered one of the best places to spot dolphins and whales.

Region of Murcia.

Europe's new golf destination! An ideal setting with more than 300 days of sunshine that allows golf enthusiasts to play on 20 top quality courses.

NATURE

The way to calm

The Region of Murcia presents a wide variety of natural environments within a relatively small area, many of them under different forms of protection status. Semidesert-like landscapes exist alongside palm groves, mountains and valleys. This variety of different landscapes makes Cartagena and its surrounding areas an ideal setting for the practise of different adventure sports and nature-based pursuits, such as trekking, cycle tourism, climbing, horseback riding and pot-holing.

Points of Interest

30 minutes away

Sierra de Cartagena and La Unión

The former washhouses and ruins of the abandoned mines that can be found in this mountain range make up a unique and extraordinary setting and testify to the mining activities of the former age.

Regional Park of Las Salinas de San Pedro del Pinatar

Learn about the local flora and fauna and witness one of the most beautiful landscapes found along a path of dunes and crystal clear waters.

Calblanque

It is a veritable pleasure to tour the beaches and spectacular cliffs of this Regional Park on horseback or by bicycle.

Atamaría

Bordering the Bay of Portmán, this green expanse of considerable beauty preserves the remains of an ancient Roman Road.

Cabo Tiñoso and La Muela

The massif bordering the sea which offers a variety of flower and animal species.

1 hour away

Fuentes del Marqués

A natural park area where you will enjoy the wildlife and beautiful landscape, and take a walk around the lakes and through the woods.

Ricote Valley

The River Segura flows through this area replete with palm groves, cultivated lands and waterwheels, a vestige of the area's Moorish past.

Sierra Espuña

This mountainous region constitutes the green heart of the Region of Murcia, offering an ideal environment in which to go trekking, mountain-climbing or cycling.

TASTE

GASTRONOMY, the way to flavour

The bounty of the sea, the land and the countryside ... Rice dishes cooked in a thousand different ways, salted meats and fish, fresh fruit and vegetables and delicious sweets are just some of the delights of Cartagena's culinary fare. The considerable quality of the local produce and a culinary approach based on a combination of ancient traditions and the latest gastronomic trends also offer a significant added-valued dimension. This quality is backed up by the Certified Origin (D.O.) status of many of the products employed, such as the wines from Jumilla, Yecla and Bullas, cheese, rice and paprika.

A mouthful of exquisite pleasure

A Caldero

A typical dish of the Mar Menor area, consisting of rice cooked with rocky fish stock and accompanied by "alioli", a sauce made of olive oil and garlic.

E Murcian Wines

D.O. (Certified Origin) Wine from Bullas, D.O. Wine from Yecla, D.O. Wine from Jumilla.

Tourists have the opportunity to visit the vineyards where these wines are made.

FESTIVALS, the way to tradition

Popular and religious celebrations in Cartagena faithfully reflect the hospitality and open nature of the local people. The town's Holy Week, which has been declared to be an event of International Interest for Tourists, provides a good example of this fact. Throughout the week, visitors can enjoy the artistic and iconic heritage of the various brotherhoods that parade along the streets with their floats, to the delight of locals and outsiders alike. The festival known as "Carthaginians and Romans" re-enacts the battle between these two peoples and the founding of Cartago Nova, involving the whole town in an exciting journey back to the past. The cultural diary is completed with other events of considerable interest, such as festivals featuring music from around the world, theatre, jazz, cinema, etc.
